HISTORICAL SKETCH OF THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

[Reprinted from the Annual Register for 1912-13.]

The first University of Chicago closed its work in 1886. Within a few months thereafter Mr. John D. Rockefeller took into consideration the founding of a new institution of learning in that city. In the fall of 1888 he conferred with Professor William R. Harper in regard to it, and finally entered into communication on the subject with Rev. F. T. Gates, Secretary of the American Baptist Education Society. In December, 1888, Mr. Gates brought the matter before the Board of the Society, which approved the effort to establish a well-equipped institution in Chicago, and instructed the Secretary to use every means in his power to originate and encourage such a movement. Being also encouraged by Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Gates henceforth gave himself, with untiring devotion, to the work of founding the University of Chicago.

At the annual meeting of the Education Society, held in Boston in May, 1889, the Society formally resolved "to take immediate steps toward the founding of a well-equipped college in the City of Chicago." To make it possible to carry out this purpose, Mr. Rockefeller at once made a subscription of $600,000 toward an endowment fund, conditioned on the pledging of $400,000 before June 1, 1890.

Immediately following the action in Boston, and the announcement of Mr. Rockefeller's subscription, early in June, 1889, a meeting was held in Chicago, and a College Committee of thirty-six was appointed to co-operate with the Society in the effort to meet the conditions proposed. This committee appointed Rev. T. W. Goodspeed to assist Mr. Gates in raising the $400,000 required. They accomplished the work, and in addition secured from Mr. Marshall Field, of Chicago, a block and a half of ground, valued at $125,000, as a site for the new institution. Two and a half additional blocks were afterward purchased for $282,500, thus providing a site of four blocks, or about twenty-four acres. The streets running through this tract were vacated by the City Council, making the University's land one unbroken piece, two blocks long and two blocks wide. In 1898, by the munificence of Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Field, two more blocks were added to the campus, at a cost of $335,000. Later between seven and eight additional blocks were added to these six. The land lies between the two great south parks of Chicago—Washington and Jackson—and fronts south on the Midway Plaisance, which is itself a park connecting the other two.

The annual meeting of the Education Society in June, 1890, was held in Chicago, and the Board of the Society adopted articles of incorporation and a charter for the new institution. On September 10 of the same year the University was incorporated with the following Trustees: E. Nelson Blake, first president of the board, Edward Goodman, Hermann H. Kohlsaat, George C. Walker, William R. Harper, Andrew MacLeish, Martin A. Ryerson, Henry A. Rust, Alonzo K. Parker, Joseph M. Bailey, Charles C. Bowen, Charles L. Hutchinson, Frederick A. Smith, George A. Pillsbury, Ferdinand W. Peck, Daniel L. Shorey, Francis E. Hinckley, John W. Midgley, Eli B. Felsenthal, Elmer L. Corthell, Charles W. Needham.

The incorporators named in the charter were John D. Rockefeller, E. Nelson Blake, Marshall Field, Fred T. Gates, Francis E. Hinckley, and Thomas W. Goodspeed. The name of the corporation in law is "THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO." In recognition of the peculiar relation of Mr. Rockefeller to the institution, the Board of Trustees has enacted that on the seal, letter heads, and all official publications of the University the title shall read: "The University of Chicago, founded by John D. Rockefeller."

At the first meeting of the Board after its incorporation in September, 1890, Professor William Rainey Harper, of Yale University, was elected President; and he entered on the duties of his office July 1, 1891. Before Professor Harper accepted the presidency, the scope of the institution had been greatly enlarged. Professor Harper felt that it should be in fact, as well as in name, a university, and Mr. Rockefeller, agreeing with this view, in September, 1890, added one million dollars to his former subscription. In accordance with the terms of this second subscription, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary was removed from Morgan Park to the University site, as the Divinity School of the University, an Academy of the University was established at Morgan Park, and $100,000 of the amount of the subscription was devoted to the erection of divinity dormitories on the grounds of the University.

On July 11, 1891, the executors and trustees of the estate of William B. Ogden designated to the University 70 per cent of that portion of the estate devoted by will to benevolent purposes. It is expected that more than half a million dollars will be realized from this designation for "The Ogden (Graduate) School of Science of the University of Chicago."

The University began the erection of its first buildings on November 26, 1891. The doors of the University were opened to students and the work of instruction began October 1, 1892. The only buildings then ready for occupancy were Cobb Lecture Hall and the Graduate and Divinity dormitories.

In February, 1892, Mr. Rockefeller made an additional donation to the University of "one thousand 5 per cent bonds of the par value of one million dollars," for the further endowment of instruction. About the same time Mr. S. A. Kent, of Chicago, undertook to provide a fully equipped laboratory of chemistry for the University. This building, the Kent Chemical Laboratory, costing the donor $235,000, was presented to the University on January 1, 1894.

In March, 1892, Mr. Marshall Field subscribed $100,000 toward a building and equipment fund, conditioned on the raising of $1,000,000 in ninety days, his own gift and Mr. Kent's donation being included in that fund. The entire sum was raised within the specified time. This amount was made up for the most part of large sums designated for particular buildings. In addition to the gifts of Mr. Kent and Mr. Field, the following large subscriptions were made for buildings: Silas B. Cobb, $165,000; Martin A. Ryerson, $200,000; George C. Walker, $130,000; Mrs. N. S. Foster, $60,000; Mrs. Henrietta Snell, $50,000; Mrs. Mary Beecher, $50,000; Mrs. Elizabeth G. Kelly, $50,000.

In 1899 and 1900, Mrs. E. G. Kelly made an additional contribution of $72,000 for the erection of Green Hall, a dormitory for women, as a memorial of her parents.

In January, 1900, Mrs. N. S. Foster made a new contribution of $20,000, for the enlargement of Nancy Foster Hall.

In June, 1892, Mr. Martin A. Ryerson was made president of the Board of Trustees and has continued in that position ever since.

In December, 1892, Mr. Rockefeller made a fourth subscription of "one thousand thousand-dollar 5 per cent bonds," as an additional endowment.

Up to this time very little provision had been made for the general equipment of the University. The need of a large fund for this purpose becoming imperative, Martin A. Ryerson, in February, 1893, announced to the Board that he would give $100,000 toward such a fund, on condition that $400,000 more were raised. This was done during the ensuing fourteen months. The Ryerson Physical Laboratory was erected in 1893-94.

The Haskell Oriental Museum was erected in 1895-96, Mrs. Caroline E. Haskell having given $100,000 for that purpose.

The Astronomical Observatory of the University was built in 1896-97 at Lake Geneva, Wis., and is called The Yerkes Observatory after the donor of the funds.

Charles Hitchcock Hall was erected in 1901-2, Mrs. Hitchcock having given $200,000 for this and other purposes.

The University was enabled to erect the Tower Group through the liberality of Charles L. Hutchinson, Treasurer of the University from its inception, John J. Mitchell, Leon Mandel, John D. Rockefeller, Harold F. McCormick, and through the interest of the executors of the Joseph Reynolds estate. The buildings composing it were erected in 1902-3.

The Frank Dickinson Bartlett Gymnasium was built at the same time, it being made possible through large gifts from Mr. A. C. Bartlett.

In the spring of 1902 the Board of Trustees determined on the organization of a Law School, and the work of instruction began in October, 1902, the Law Building being erected in 1903-4.

On January 10, 1906, the University suffered an incalculable loss in the death of President William Rainey Harper, who had served through fourteen and a half years. On the death of President Harper, Harry Pratt Judson was appointed Acting President of the University, and on February 20, 1907, he was elected President.

Following President Harper's death a fund of nearly $900,000 was contributed by twenty-two hundred subscribers for the building of the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library. Ground was broken for the Library January 10, 1910, four years from the date of President Harper's death. The building was dedicated at the June Convocation, 1912.

In 1912-13 Martin A. Ryerson built an addition to the Ryerson Physical Laboratory at a cost of $200,000.

At the Convocations held on August 30, 1912, and on June 10, 1913, President Judson announced gifts aggregating $550,000 by Mr. Julius Rosenwald and Mr. LaVerne Noyes, to be used for the erection of new buildings, the contribution of the latter, $300,000, for a social center and gymnasium for women.

By the bequest of Mrs. Elizabeth G. Kelly provision has been made for the erection of a Classics building, to cost about $250,000.

During the year 1913, the grandstands and the fence around the Athletic Field were completed at a cost of more than $200,000. These facilities greatly strengthened the Division of Physical Culture and Athletics, which, under the supervision of Professor A. A. Stagg, has had an important and honorable part in the history of the University.

December 14, 1895, Miss Helen Culver, of Chicago, presented to the University property valued at $1,000,000, "the whole gift to be devoted to the increase and spread of knowledge within the field of the biological sciences."

At the Convocation held March 19, 1901, the President announced that the Chicago Institute, founded by Mrs. Emmons Blaine, was to become a School of the University, to be known as the University of Chicago School of Education; that the South Side Academy was to become one of the secondary schools of the University, and that this school and the Chicago Manual Training School would be connected with the University School of Education, the two combined preparatory schools to be named the University High School. The buildings of this School occupy the block fronting south on the Midway Plaisance between Kimbark and Kenwood avenues.

By the assistance of Mrs. Blaine University College was established in 1898 for the benefit of teachers and others unable to attend the University. Instruction has been given in the central part of the city. The enrolment for 1912-13 was 941.

With the beginning of the academic year 1901-2 the University instituted instruction in the first two years of a Medical Course. A Medical Faculty was appointed, and the Freshman and Sophomore classes of Rush Medical College were transferred to the University.

As is well known, Mr. John D. Rockefeller has been the principal contributor to the funds of the University. About $8,000,000 have been contributed by others. Up to January 1, 1906, Mr. Rockefeller had given to the University about $15,000,000. Since that date, during the administration of President Judson, his contributions have aggregated nearly $20,000,000, or a total of almost $35,000,000. This total includes what Mr. Rockefeller designated his "final" gift, namely $10,000,000, made December 13, 1910, now being paid in ten equal annual instalments, beginning January 1, 1911. The sum of at least $1,500,000, of this final gift is "to be used for the erection and furnishing of a University Chapel," the remainder, as far as practicable, for endowment. The purpose of Mr. Rockefeller, in making this great gift, was to establish, on permanent foundations, the University as now organized. In his letter of gift he wrote: "The founding and support of new departments, or the development of the varied and alluring fields of applied science, including medicine, I leave to the wisdom of the trustees, as funds may be furnished for these purposes by other friends of the University."

President Harry Pratt Judson, in his address at the service on October 8, 1913, commemorating the opening of the University twenty-one years ago, made the following striking comparisons: "The faculty at that time numbered about one hundred; at present it numbers about four hundred. Since that date the number of students who have matriculated, thus having had courses at some time in the University, is 49,941. The total number of students enrolled during the year opening the first of October, 1892, was 742. The number enrolled during the year closing June 30, 1913, was 6,802. The number of those who have received degrees from the University since its opening is 7,050. The grounds belonging to the University in 1892 comprised about twenty-five acres. The present campus, including the Midway frontage on both sides, from Cottage Grove Avenue to Dorchester Avenue, is nearly one hundred acres. The buildings in use on the grounds twenty-one years ago included Cobb Hall and the three dormitories adjoining that building on the south. The University has now about forty buildings. The total of gifts paid in at the opening amounted to $925,813.08. The total of gifts paid in at this time amounts to $35,086,836.45. In addition to that sums pledged and payable within a short time in the future amount to $7,495,000. . . . . The most vital assets of the University, however, are not found in millions of endowment, in great buildings, or in extensive acreage of land, but consist rather in the students, the alumni, the men and women who are doing university work. Character and intellectual attainments cannot be purchased by money, and are the finest fruitage of all the work which the University has done or will do."

The annual enrolment of students has been as follows:

HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

When no city is named the address of the alumnus is Chicago.

To find the names of alumni by cities and states consult the Geographical Index.

The degrees enumerated in this Directory are those conferred prior to July 1, 1913.

Complete information is given only with the highest degree.

The University year runs from July 1 to July 1. Graduates in the Summer Quarter will find themselves classified under the numerals of the following year, except in the case of Doctors of Philosophy.

Alumnae who have married since graduation will be found recorded under the name which appears on their diploma. This is followed by the married name. In the alphabetical index both names are entered.

The degree of Bachelor of Education is no longer given for work in the School of Education. The Degree of Bachelor of Theology was given from 1888 to 1892 by the Baptist Union Theological Seminary.

Convenience in reference has governed the arrangement of information. Doctors of Philosophy are classified under their departments, the year of graduation being subsidiary to the major subject. Elsewhere the arrangement is by year throughout.

DEGREES CONFERRED BY THE FORMER UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO AND THE BAPTIST UNION THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

On February 2, 1891, the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, by formal vote, confirmed the Bachelor degrees conferred by the former institution, and by this action adopted its graduates as alumni of the University of Chicago.

No action was taken concerning degrees conferred by the former University other than Bachelor of Arts, Philosophy, and Science.

On July 13, 1891, the Baptist Union Theological Seminary became the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, and by formal action of the Board of Trustees of the University of Chicago, approved by the Board of Trustees of the Seminary, the graduates of the Seminary were made alumni of the University of Chicago.
